SUKI FINN

Agent: Ben Clark

Suki Finn is a Doctor of Philosophy, working as an academic at Royal Holloway University of London. Highly respected in her field, she is a co-Director for the Society for Women in Philosophy UK, a council member for The Royal Institute of Philosophy, and a Fellow of the Higher Education Academy.

Suki specialises in applied- and meta- metaphysics, with interests spanning the areas of feminist/queer theory, critical socio-legal theory, the epistemology of logic, bioethics, and the philosophy of science. She is the editor of the book Women of Ideas (Oxford University Press, 2021) and author of the forthcoming book What's in a Doughnut Hole? And other philosophical food for thought (Icon Books, 2026).

Outside of academia, Suki is also a talented musician with compositions signed to Universal and Ninja Tune Production Music, and makes ambient and electronic music under the artist name Masukii.
